

ABSTRACT

An apparatus for creating and maintaining a database containing information relating to residential properties includes an AVM device configured to receive information relating to residential properties, producing AVM values for each property and updating an AVM database with the AVM values.